History of U.S. Championship

No series of tournaments or matches enjoys the same rich, turbulent history as that of the United States Chess Championship. It is in many ways unique – and, up to recently, unappreciated.

In Europe and elsewhere, the idea of choosing a national champion came slowly. The first Russian championship tournament, for example, was held in 1889. The Germans did not get around to naming a champion until 1879. The first official Hungarian championship occurred in 1906, and the first Dutch, three years later.

But American chess fans knew as early as 1845 who their champion was: the little-known Charles Stanley – and many non-players knew it, too, because the title match of that year was well publicized. Twelve years later the industrious American organizers mounted their first tournament for a national champion. And that event, New York 1857, won by the “pride and soul of chess,” Paul Morphy, was only the fourth true chess tournament ever held in the world.

In its first century and a half plus, the United States Championship has provided all kinds of entertainment. It has introduced new heroes exactly one hundred years apart in Paul Morphy (1857) and Bobby Fischer (1957) and honored remarkable veterans such as Sammy Reshevsky in his late 60s. There have been stunning upsets (Arnold Denker in 1944 and John Grefe in 1973) and marvelous achievements (Fischer’s winning debut as a precocious 14-year-old in 1957, and his remarkable perfect score of 11-0 in 1964, to his record-breaking eight title wins).

The championship has seen scandals and swindles, boycotts and brilliancies, bitter controversy and theoretical innovations. The games have been won and lost by geniuses and drunkards, prodigies and émigrés, college dons and coffeehouse hustlers.

It has also been a truly national championship. For many years the title tournament was identified with New York. But it has also been held in towns as small as South Fallsburg, New York, Mentor, Ohio, and Greenville, Pennsylvania.

Fans have witnessed championship play in Boston, and Las Vegas, Baltimore and Los Angeles, Lexington, Kentucky, and El Paso, Texas. The title has been decided in sites as varied as the Sazerac Coffee House in 1845 to the Cincinnati Literary Club, the Automobile Club of Detroit. The U.S. Championship has been held in the auditorium of a fundamentalist Christian college in Pasadena and, in 1984 the Student Union Building of the University of California at Berkeley, as well as the Seattle Center in the shadows of the Space Needle. The most recent titles have been decided in Oklahoma in the 2007 and 2008 Championships.

U.S. Championship Facts

With a heritage line that includes great legends of the game, no series of tournaments or matches enjoys the same rich history as that of the U.S. Chess Championships.

- The first player to be termed, by popular acclaim, “U.S. Champion”, was Charles Stanley in 1845.
- The first championship to find a true national champion was New York 1857, won by Paul Morphy. It was only the fourth chess championship ever held.
- The first “official” U.S. Champion was Jackson Showalter (who is also credited with the invention of the curve ball in baseball) in 1890.

– From 1905 through to 1936, the title was decided by a match between the top two players in the country; Frank Marshall holding the title throughout.

– The longest gap between title wins is 33 years when Sammy Revshevsky won his first title in 1936 and his last, in 1969.

– The first U.S. Women’s Championship was held in 1938, and won by Gisela Gresser.

– The youngest winner of the title at 14 in 1957 was Bobby Fischer. He also holds the record for the most titles won with 8.

– The player with the best score is Bobby Fischer, who in 1964 recorded a perfect 11-0.

In 2004, the U.S. Championship had a big media presence, with recorded figures showing we had:

- More than 50 million impressions from media clips – double that of 2002.
- More than 445 stories came out in national print/online – 50 percent more than we had in 2002.
- More than 25 local/national broadcast stories of the games was tracked; this is up from the previous year’s 14 broadcast clips.
- 45 out of 50 states ran at least one story about the U.S. Championships
- 35 million website hits
- 110,500 unique visitors tracked

NATION'S BEST PLAYERS TO COMPETE IN MAY AT 2009 U.S. CHESS CHAMPIONSHIP IN ST. LOUIS

Two dozen contestants will vie for $130,000 in prizes at new venue

ST. LOUIS, January 27, 2009 – Two dozen of the nation's best chess players will be invited to participate in the 2009 U.S. Chess Championship, which will be held at the new Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis. The tournament, which dates back to 1845, will take place from May 7 through 17, 2009 and will offer a purse of more than $130,000 in prize money.

The Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis, which Steve Goldberg of United States Chess Federation (USCF) Online calls "certainly one of the most impressive chess centers" in the country, opened in July 2008. Founded by retired investment fund manager Rex Sinquefield, it already has nearly 500 members, surpassing its original goal of 300 for its first year of operation by 67 percent.

The 24 invited players will include:

- the top 12 American players by rating, using the April rating supplement;
- the top two female players by rating, using the April rating supplement;
- the 2008 U.S. Junior Closed Champion;
- the 2008 U.S. Open Champion;
- the 2009 U.S. State Champion of Champions;
- a total of seven wild card spots, to be determined later.

The winner will receive $35,000, with additional cash prizes awarded to all participants, including $2,000 to the last-place entrant. Cash prizes will be divided equally among tied competitors. Additionally, top youths from throughout America will be invited to compete. Spectators will be welcome at the event.

The championship will be a 9-round event, using the Swiss system with one round per day and a rest day between rounds 5 and 6. Time controls will be the classical 40 moves in two hours, with one hour allowed for all remaining moves. Guest commentary will be provided by two world-class Grand Masters throughout the event.

"We are delighted to host the prestigious U.S. Chess Championship in our first full year of operation," said Tony Rich, executive director of the Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis. (continued)

Saint Louis, Missouri | May 7-17, 2009

Gata Kamsky

Overall ranking: 1

Rating points: 2798

Age: 34

Birthplace: Russia

Residence: Brooklyn, NY

Highlights: 2007 World Cup, 1991 U.S. Championship

Bio: Gata Kamsky came to the U.S. in 1989 and became a Grandmaster in 1990 at 16. He played Karpov for the World Championship in 1996. Although he lost the match, he was the first American since Bobby Fischer to go that far. After losing, he gave up chess, attended and graduated from law school. After a break of nearly a decade, Kamsky returned to chess, to win the 2007 World Chess Cup just three years after his comeback. Kamsky lost his February 09 match against Veselin Topalov and with it, the chance to advance to the this cycle's World Championship, but he is as determined as ever. Kamsky participates in one elite event after another in Europe, making him the #1 GM to watch in Saint Louis.

Hikaru Nakamura

Overall ranking: 2

Rating points: 2757

Age: 21

Birthplace: Japan

Residence: White Plains, NY

Highlights: 2005 U.S. Championship, 2007 North American Open Champion, 2007 National Open Champion

Bio: Hikaru Nakamura is a record-breaking, blitz champion, medal-earning phenomenon. He became the youngest master in American history at the age of 10, then broke Bobby Fischer's record by becoming the youngest American Grandmaster at 15. In 2004, he advanced into the sweet 16 at the World Championship in Libya. He also won his first U.S. Championship at the age of 16. He's racked up numerous championships over the past decade, and despite his aggressive, individualistic style, Nakamura has proven to be a great team player: He was a two-time bronze medallist in the 2006 and 2008 Olympiad, playing for the USA team.

Alexander Onischuk

Overall ranking: 3

Rating points: 2736

Age: 33

Birthplace: Ukraine

Residence: Baltimore, MD

Highlights: 2006 U.S. Championship, second in the 2007 Grandmaster Tournament of International Chess Festival Biel

Bio: Alexander Onischuk has placed first in more than 20 tournaments, including the 2000 Ukrainian Championship. He became a Grandmaster in 1994 at the age of 19 and relocated to the U.S. in 2001. When he won the 2006 U.S. Championship, he called it the happiest moment of his career to have his name on a trophy alongside players such as Fischer and Morphy. Onischuk was key to America's bronze medal finishes in 2006 and 2008 Olympiads. He has an impressive international record: he placed second in the International Chess Festival in Biel and also won the super strong Moscow Open in January 2009. Onischuk is a member of the Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis' board of Grandmaster Advisers.

Yury Shulman

Overall ranking: 4

Rating points: 2697

Age: 33

Birthplace: Belarus

Residence: Barrington, IL

Highlights: 2008 U.S. Championship, 2006 U.S. Open Championship, tied for first in the 2001 World Open

Bio: Yury Shulman achieved the Grandmaster title in 1995 and moved to the U.S. four years later to become one of the top American players. Shulman also uses chess for philanthropic causes. He founded the Yury Shulman International Chess School and consistently contributes to not-for-profit entities, schools and camps. He holds a bachelor's degree in computer science and an MBA. Last year proved to be a great year for Shulman: In addition to winning his first U.S. Championship title, he was also part of the bronze medal Olympiad team in Dresden, Germany.

Larry Christiansen

Overall ranking: 6

Rating points: 2681

Age: 52

Birthplace: Riverside, CA

Residence: Cambridge, CA

Highlights: 2002 U.S. Championship, 1983 U.S. Championship, 1980 U.S. Championship, 2001 Canadian Open Chess Championship

Bio: Larry Christiansen was the first junior high school student to win the National High School Championship, taking the title in 1971. He went on to win three invitational U.S. Junior Championships and three U.S. Championships. He became a Grandmaster in 1977 at the age of 21, skipping over the usual step of becoming an International Master. Christiansen has won the prestigious Linares tournament twice. He has a thrilling chess style that is always fun for spectators. He even wrote two books on attacking: "Storming the Barricades" and "Rocking the Ramparts."

Julio Becerra

Overall ranking: 7

Rating points: 2672

Age: 35

Birthplace: Cuba

Residence: Miami, FL

Highlights: 2006 Florida Champion, 2006 U.S. Chess League MVP, 1995 and 1998 Cuban Champion

Bio: Julio Becerra earned his Grandmaster title in 1997 and decided to relocate to the U.S. two years later after attending the 1999 World Championship in Las Vegas. Until 2005, however, he was unable to travel internationally to play chess because he had no American passport. He since has become a U.S. citizen and has steadily increased his rating. Becerra is first board for the Miami Sharks of the U.S. Chess League and was league MVP for two years in a row.

Overall ranking: 8

Rating points: 2664

Age: 25

Birthplace: Armenia

Residence: North Hollywood, CA

Highlights: 2004 World Open, tied for first place in the 2002 World Open

Bio: Varuzhan Akobian qualified to play his first rated tournament, the Armenian Junior Chess Championship in 1992, earning 3rd place in the under 10 section, then went on to take 1st place the following year. He participated in his first World Chess Championship in Czechoslovakia at the age of 9 and placed 8th. He won the Samford Chess Fellowship in 2002, which allowed him to focus on chess for two years. It paid off: Akobian reached his first long-time goal of becoming a Grandmaster in 2004. Akobian is known for being a great team player: He was a member of the bronze medal Olympiad teams in 2006 and 2008. He was also featured on MTV's "True Life" series. Akobian is the highest-ranked Californian player.

Gregory Kaidanov

Overall ranking: 9

Rating points: 2662

Age: 49

Birthplace: Ukraine

Residence: Lexington, KY

Highlights: 2002 U.S. Masters winner, 2002 Chicago Open Winner, 1992 World Open Winner, 1992 U.S. Open Winner

Bio: Gregory Kaidanov's first major win came in a Moscow tournament in 1987, and he was awarded the Grandmaster title a year later. Kaidanov moved to the U.S. in 1991. He's racked up a number of tournament championships. Kaidanov was a member of the silver Olympiad team in Russia in 1998, won a silver board medal at the Calvia, Spain Olympiad in 2004 and was a member of the bronze medal Olympiad team in 2006. Kaidanov is one of America's premiere chess coaches. In 2008, he coached the U.S. team to a bronze medal finish at the Women's Olympiad.

Joel Benjamin

Overall ranking: 10

Rating points: 2650

Age: 45

Birthplace: New York

Residence: New Jersey

Highlights: 2000 U.S. Championship, 1997 U.S. Championship, 1987 U.S. Championship

Bio: Joel Benjamin became a national master at the age of 13, breaking Bobby Fischer's record for youngest-ever master. A three-time U.S. Junior Champion, he became a Grandmaster in 1986. Benjamin also goes into the U.S. Championship history books for playing in a record 22 consecutive championships. His most-famous gig was helping the Deep Blue IBM Computer team defeat Garry Kasparov in 1997, a win that was later featured in the documentary "Game Over."

Birthplace: Estonia

Residence: Baltimore, MD

Highlights: 2008 Pan American-Continental Championship, qualifying for the 2009 FIDE World Cup, tied for first in the "A2" section of the Aeroflot Open, 2003 World Open

Bio: Jaan Ehvest rose to chess fame quickly in the early 1980s, placing second in the 1981 World Junior Championship and first in the 1983 European Junior Championship. He became a Grandmaster in 1987 and two years later finished clear first in the 1989 Reggio Emilia. Ehvest won the Grand Prix title in 2006, the same year he switched federations from Estonia to America, making him eligible for the U.S. Championship for the first time.

Boris Gulko

Overall ranking: 12

Rating points: 2631

Age: 62

Birthplace: Germany

Residence: Fairlawn, NJ

Highlights: 1999 U.S. Championship, 1994 U.S. Championship

Bio: Boris Gulko earned his Grandmaster title in 1976 and won the USSR Chess Championship a year later. His chess career took a backseat to his opposition to Communism. As a "refusenik," he was arrested, beaten and forbidden to participate in top-level chess competitions. Gulko was allowed to come to the U.S. in 1986. He qualified to play in the 2004 World Chess Championship in Libya but withdrew along with other Jewish players.

CHES CLUB AND SCHOLASTIC CENTER OF SAINT LOUIS
PRESENTS THE 2009 U.S. CHAMPIONSHIP

Saint Louis, Missouri | May 7-17, 2009

Our Beginnings

The building selected for the club was built in 1897 by A. M. Einke. The renovation took seven months to complete.

Visitors and members alike appreciate the sophisticated environment as well as the technology.

The Chess Club And Scholastic Center of Saint Louis was founded in 2007 as a not-for-profit organization to promote the game of chess, with emphasis on promotion of scholastic chess across the greater Saint Louis area. Impetus for creation of the club came largely from Rex Siquefield, a retired investment fund manager with strong interests in both chess and helping people.

Mr.Sinquefield's donations have gotten the club off to a promising start.

Club goals include providing ample opportunities for existing players to play as well as introducing newcomers, including students, to the game.

Our Mission

The Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis is the most beautiful and technologically advanced chess club in the nation. It is a new destination for chess players, both beginning and advanced, to enjoy a game of skill more than 1500 years old.

Our Goals

Elevate the game of chess throughout the Saint Louis community and introduce chess to thousands of Saint Louis' children and adults.

Recognizing the cognitive and behavioral benefits of chess, the Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis is committed to supporting those chess programs that already exist in area schools, while encouraging the development of new programs within regular school curricula.

Technology at the Center

The Boards

The Center features eight DGT-brand chessboards.

These state-of-the-art chessboards connect to a computer and automatically relay the moves, position, and time of the game to a computer, which then is able to display the game on one of the plasma TVs. There is one Saitek digital clock for every chessboard.

The TVs

The Center has nine 46" plasma TVs and one 52" plasma TV.

The nine 46" screens are used for the DGT-brand chessboards and the 52" screen is located in the lecture area, so lecturers can display their presentation in front of the whole class. There are an additional eight plasma TV screens displaying three permanent art installations.

The Website

The Center's website, www.saintlouischessclub.org, includes:

the ability to manage your membership, register and pay for tournaments and events; a retail sales storefront; and training materials for chess students;

The Amenities

The Center offers free wireless Internet access for members.

Tech specs: a state-of-the-art security system that gives members card access control to the building, an overhead zonal paging system so announcements can be made during tournaments to specific areas of the building, including the front patio, and an automated system that controls the lighting, televisions and sound system for the entire facility.

CHESS CLUB AND SCHOLASTIC CENTER OF SAINT LOUIS
PRESENTS THE 2009 U.S. CHAMPIONSHIP

Saint Louis, Missouri | May 7-17, 2009

FISCHER MEMORIAL PRIZE, JACKPOT BONUS ADDED TO PRIZES FOR 2009 U.S. CHESS CHAMPIONSHIP
BEING HELD IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, February 18, 2009 – A $64,000 bonus in memory of late chess champion Bobby Fischer and a jackpot bonus for a “clear” first-place winner have been added to the prizes being awarded at the 2009 U.S. Chess Championship. The tournament, which will be held May 7-17, 2009 at the new Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis, will offer a purse of more than $130,000 in prize money.

Any player who scores a 9-0 sweep will be awarded the Fischer Memorial Prize, a $64,000 bonus in addition to the first-place award. The prize is in remembrance of the late American world champion Bobby Fischer, who died in 2008 at age 64. Fischer scored an 11-0 victory in the 1963-64 U.S. championship, the only perfect score in the event’s history.

Additionally, a jackpot bonus of $5,000 will be awarded to the first-place winner. If there is a tie for first, the jackpot will be awarded in a playoff for the title of U.S. champion, to be contested on May 17, after the final round and before the closing ceremony. Up to four players will contest a series of one-game rapid matches designed to guarantee a decisive result (“draw odds games”).

Two dozen of the nation’s best players will be invited to participate in the 2009 U.S. Chess Championship. The 24 players include:

- the top 12 American players by rating, using the April rating supplement;
- the top two female players by rating, using the April rating supplement;
- the 2008 U.S. Junior Closed Champion;
- the 2008 U.S. Open Champion;
- the 2009 U.S. State Champion of Champions;
- the 2008 defending U.S. Chess Champion;
- a total of six wild card spots, to be determined later.

The winner will receive $35,000, with additional cash prizes awarded to all participants, including $2,000 to the last-place entrant. Cash prizes will be divided equally among tied competitors. Additionally, top youths from throughout America will be invited to compete. Spectators will be welcome at the event. continued

PRESENTS THE 2009 U.S. CHAMPIONSHIP

The championship will be a 9-round event, using the Swiss system with one round per day and a rest day on Friday, May 15 between rounds 7 and 8. Time controls will be the classical 40 moves in two hours, with one hour allowed for all remaining moves. There also will be a five-second “increment” added to each player’s clock after every move. Guest commentary will be provided by two world-class Grandmasters throughout the event.

“We are excited to be able to provide these extra bonuses to the top-tier contestants who will be participating at the 2009 U.S. Chess Championship,” said Tony Rich, executive director of the Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis. “It is fitting to honor the fiercely competitive late chess legend Bobby Fischer in such an environment.”

The Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis is a not-for-profit, 501(c)3 organization that opened in July 2008. Founded by retired investment fund manager Rex Sinquefield, it already has nearly 500 members, surpassing its original goal of 300 for its first year of operation by 67 percent. The club, which Steve Goldberg of United States Chess Federation (USCF) Online calls “certainly one of the most impressive chess centers” in the country, offers free classes for beginners, discounted tournament entry fees and discounted merchandise for club members. For more information, please visit www.saintlouischessclub.org or call 314-361-CHESS.

In 1939 with the merger of the American Chess Federation and the National Chess Federation, USCF has grown to more than 80,000 members and nearly 1,200 affiliated chess clubs and organizations. USCF sanctions 25 national championship award titles to both amateurs and professionals, ranging from elementary school students to senior citizens. For more information, visit www.uschess.org.

PRESENTS THE 2009 U.S. CHAMPIONSHIP

Saint Louis, Missouri | May 7-17, 2009

2009 U.S. WOMEN'S CHESS CHAMPIONSHIP TO BE HELD OCTOBER 2-12
AT CHESS CLUB AND SCHOLASTIC CENTER OF SAINT LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, March 28, 2009 -- The 2009 U.S. Women's Chess Championship will be held from October 2 through 12 at the sparkling, new Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis, which opened in July 2008. The Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis also is the site of the 2009 U.S. Chess Championship, which will take place from May 7 through 17.

The U.S. Women's Chess Championship dates back to 1937. The tournament is a 9-round event using the Round Robin pairing system, in which every player plays every other player and the highest score wins. Time controls will be the classical 40 moves in two hours, with the remaining moves in one hour. There will also be a 5-second increment per move.

Invitations will be sent to the top nine U.S. women players by ranking based on the August 2009 United States Chess Federation rating list. An invitation will also be sent to the defending champion, Olympic gold medalist Anna Zatonskih. The championship will have a purse of $64,000, with $15,000 awarded to the winner, the highest first prize in its history. In case of even scores, prize funds will be evenly divided between winners.

"We are delighted to have the opportunity to host this major event in the world of competitive chess," said Rex Sinquefield, a retired investment fund manager who founded the Chess Club and Scholastic Center of Saint Louis. "We are honored and most fortunate to serve as the official site in 2009 of two of the premier chess championships."

Steve Goldberg of the United States Chess Federation (USCF) Online calls the new St. Louis club "certainly one of the most impressive chess centers" in the country. While serving as host club for the U.S. Women's Chess Championship and the U.S. Chess Championship, Sinquefield notes, "It is the goal of the Club to encourage all of St. Louis' young people to learn chess. We believe that bringing the best chess players in the country to our city will help achieve that goal. Chess Club to encourage all of St. Louis' young people to learn chess. We believe that bringing the best chess players in the country to our city will help achieve that goal."
